GIN PAIRING

Beefeater

Beefeater, not just your standard gin. It is a great start to get on the G&T wagon. It dates back to the 1800s and is named after the guards at the tower of London. The London dry style, with its simple citrus flavour, is especially easy to drink alongside Schweppes tonic with an orange and lemon wheel.

Single and tonic 4.80

Bombay Sapphire

Bombay Sapphire is a fairly new gin, only established since 1987, but its recipe dates back to 1761, so it is a great gin with a real pedigree. Its floral flavours complements ideally with Fever-Tree's elderflower tonic and a simple lime wedge, to give it that citrus kick.

Single

& Fever-Tree elderflower tonic 5.55

Hendrick's

Hendrick's is fast becoming the gin to have. This Scottish gin is very unusual compared to other gins as it has eleven peculiar botanicals, which include cucumber and rose petals. The use of the local Fentimans tonic and fresh cucumber really creates a refreshing taste and a delightful floral aroma.

Single & Fentimans tonic 6.25

Caorunn

Caorunn pronounced (KA-ROON) is our Bar Manager's favourite. Its main flavour is citrus, but it has a touch of apple and with a Fentimans tonic and a slice of apple, is in his opinion the perfect G&T.

Do you agree?

Single & Fentimans tonic 6.25

Aviation

Aviation, from the U.S.A. is a Dutch style gin, but is distilled from rye. Its floral profile comes from the juniper, lavender, Indian sarsaparilla and orange peel. Serve with Fever-Tree tonic and raspberries, makes it both fruity and floral.

Single & Fever-Tree tonic 6.55

No.3

No.3 currently holds royal warrant for H.M. The Queen and H.R.H. The Prince of Wales.

It is a simple London dry gin with six botanicals distilled in traditional copper pot stills. This gin combines extremely well with Fentimans traditional tonic, served simply with a classic lemon wheel. Highly recommended.
